

November 25, 2020

For Immediate Release

Contact: Lara DeDominicis
laura@nurturingmindsinafrica.org
617-750-6268

Ambassador Liberata Mulamula (Retired) of Tanzania Appointed Nurturing Minds Goodwill Ambassador

Washington, D.C. - Ambassador Liberata Mulamula (Retired) of Tanzania has been appointed Goodwill Ambassador to U.S.-based Nurturing Minds which supports the Secondary Education for Girls' Advancement (SEGA) boarding school in Tanzania. SEGA empowers 1,200 vulnerable girls annually by providing quality education, life skills and entrepreneurship opportunities which allows them to become leaders in their communities.

Ambassador Mulamula's new two-year role representing Nurturing Minds will help to raise awareness of its projects, activities and initiatives while developing partnerships and increasing support for the organization.

"I feel honored and humbled to serve as Goodwill Ambassador to Nurturing Minds. I was very inspired when I first heard about SEGA while serving as the Tanzania Ambassador to the United States. I fell in love with SEGA as it reminded me of my own Tanzanian school days and was thrilled to participate in its graduation ceremony a few years ago," said Ambassador Mulamula.

Ambassador Mulamula (center) was the Guest of Honor at the 2016 SEGA Girls' School graduation in Morogoro, Tanzania. Photo credit: Nurturing Minds, Inc.

Ambassador Mulamula has been a career diplomat with 35 years of experience having served in various capacities, including Ambassador to the United States of America and Mexico. She is currently a Visiting Scholar and Associate Director at the Elliott School of International Affairs' Institute for African Studies at George Washington University where she teaches Women and Leadership in Africa, as well as the Role of Multilateral Diplomacy in Global Politics.

The Ambassador is a graduate of the University of Dar es Salaam in Tanzania, holds a M.A. in Government and Politics from St. John's University in New York and has a post-graduate Diploma in International Law.

About Nurturing Minds

Nurturing Minds (NM) is a US-based nonprofit whose mission is to support quality education, life skills, and entrepreneurship to help vulnerable girls in Tanzania become leaders in their communities. Nurturing Minds achieves its mission by providing support to SEGA (Secondary Education for Girls' Advancement) for the development and operation of a quality secondary boarding school, a continuing education scholarship program, and a community outreach program that brings elements of SEGA's Life Skills program to girls in rural communities throughout Tanzania. For more information visit www.nurturingmindsinafrica.org

###